

EX-GOVERNOR MORRIS DEAD

FOUND LYING UNCONSCIOUS IN HIS OFFICE.

Passed Away at 3 p. m. at His Home—General Expression of Sorrow in the Community and Throughout the State—A Sketch of His Public Career—A Striking Citizen.

Ex-Governor Luzon B. Morris died of apoplexy at his home, No. 230 Prospect street, at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The sad intelligence of the sudden prostration and critical condition of the ex-governor spread rapidly about town and came as a shock to the community, and the news of his death a few hours later was received with genuine public sorrow.

Judge Morris was stricken with vertigo about 10 a. m. while at his office, and was taken home in an unconscious condition. He had suffered from indigestion for several days, but went to his office in the old Palladium building on Orange street soon after 9 a. m. as usual.

An hour later Algernon H. Morse, who has an office in the same building, entered Judge Morris' office and found him lying on the floor unconscious.

Drs. Bellosa, Gaynor and Chapman were called and after making an examination ordered that the unconscious man be sent home, and the hospital ambulance was procured for the purpose. At 1 p. m. the governor was still unconscious. Drs. Bellosa and Gaynor were in attendance. His pulse and temperature were not alarming and it was feared that he sustained a slight paralytic stroke.

The physicians could not at that hour determine whether or not he had suffered a shock, but admitted that he had suffered a serious attack of vertigo.

Dr. Robert Morris, his son, from New York, who happened to be in town, was summoned to the bedside of the stricken man and he at once assumed charge. At 2:30 Dr. Morris announced that the patient had not recovered consciousness and that he was sinking rapidly. Dr. Morris diagnosed the attack as acute apoplexy and ordered telegrams sent at once to the friends of the dying man. The ex-governor died exactly on the stroke of 3 o'clock without having any regained consciousness.

There were present at the end only Mrs. Luzon Morris, wife of the ex-governor, Dr. Robert Morris, his son, Miss Dixon, a trained nurse, and Dr. Louis Gaynor. The direct cause of his death was cerebral hemorrhage, or apoplexy.

CAREER OF EX-GOVERNOR MORRIS.

Luzon Burrill Morris was born at Newtown, Fairfield county, Conn., April 16, 1827. His father was E. Gould Morris of Newtown, who owned a grist mill in the village, which stood where the Derby extension now passes through Newtown.

His wife, the mother of ex-Governor Morris, was Lydia Bennett, daughter of Thaddeus Bennett of Monroe. She had been a teacher for thirteen years. Two sons and a daughter were born, Luzon being the youngest. When seven years of age his father was stricken with paralysis and six years later he died.

HIS EARLY SCHOOL DAYS.

Luzon was sent to the Zoar school, where Judge Belden of California, Judge Briscoe of Thompsonville, Professor Sylvester Clarke and James Nichols of Hartford were among his school fellows who have since achieved fame.

After leaving school he apprenticed himself to a Mr. Higgins, a Roxbury blacksmith, and from there he went to Seymour and entered the sugar factory of Raymond French, father of ex-Congressman Carlos French. By rigid economy he saved enough to pay his expenses at Suffield, which was then at the height of its glory, at the same time teaching school at Torrington.

HE ENTERS COLLEGE.

His Suffield education fitted him for Yale and he entered in the fall of 1850. The summer vacations were spent at Seymour, where the library of his former employer was placed at his disposal.

After taking his degree he studied law and was admitted to the New Haven county bar in 1856. His first office was opened in Seymour, where the elder Mr. French did much to aid the ambitious young practitioner. In 1858 he received the degree of A. M. from Yale.

HIS CAREER IN POLITICS.

In 1855-56 he represented the town of Seymour in the legislature and in 1857 was elected judge of probate in the town of New Haven. From the beginning of his political career he was a leading member of the democratic party. The office of judge of probate he held for six years to his own credit and the entire satisfaction of his constituents.

The knowledge of real estate gained in this office made him one of the best authorities on that subject in the state. In 1879, '80 and '81 he represented

New Haven in the legislature, and in 1874 was state senator and president pro tem. of the upper house.

In 1880, when the question of the boundary line between Connecticut and New York was causing so much disturbance, Mr. Morris was instrumental in bringing about a satisfactory settlement. He was also chairman of the commission appointed by the legislature of 1883 to revise the probate laws of the state, and the present statutes were framed by him.

CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR.

In 1890 Judge Morris was the democratic candidate for governor, and had, it was claimed, a majority of twenty-six votes over all other candidates.

His plurality over Morgan G. Bulkeley, his republican opponent, was 3,666.

Judge Morris was declared elected by the democratic senate and subscribed to its oath of office as administered by a member of that body, although he never took the seat to which he was declared to be elected.

The memorable and tiresome deadlock followed, the case went into the courts of the state from the lowest to the supreme on one point and another, and was in litigation until the term had nearly expired.

ELECTED GOVERNOR IN 1892.

Judge Morris was again his party's candidate in 1892 and this time was elected by a clear majority over all other candidates and was inaugurated in January, 1893.

Just before his term of office expired he was chosen a director of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad.

The ex-governor was administrator of the vast estate of Daniel Hand, the widely-known philanthropist of Guilford, and had in his keeping as trustee many millions of dollars.

Since retiring from the governorship of the state he had confined himself to an extensive law practice. He had been in slightly poor health for some time, but was not thought seriously ill.

Mr. Morris was married June 15, 1858, to Eugenia L., daughter of Lucius and Laura Tuttle of Seymour. They have six children, three sons and three daughters, each of the latter being a graduate of Vassar college. Robert Tuttle Morris is a practicing surgeon in New York; Charles Gould Morris graduated at Yale last June and Roy is preparing for that institution. Mary is now Mrs. Charles M. Pratt of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Helen is the wife of Professor Arthur T. Hadley, and Emily, the youngest daughter, lives at home.

Professor and Mrs. Arthur T. Hadley arrived shortly after the death of Governor Morris and Professor Hadley assumed charge of affairs at the house.

Miss Emily Morris was visiting Mrs. Charles M. Pratt at her home in Brooklyn and a telegram brought them home late in the afternoon.

The relatives will meet to-day and perfect the funeral arrangements. John W. Alding will attend to the business of the deceased for the present. No one knows the combination of the safe in the governor's office and an expert has been sent for to open it, as it contains most of the books and papers used in his business affairs and it is now securely locked.

Governor Morris was president of the Connecticut Savings bank and was a member of the society's committee of Center church.

MEMORIAL MEETING TO BE HELD IN SEPTEMBER.

The New Haven County Bar association gave out last evening the following statement in regard to holding a meeting to pass resolutions on the death of Governor Morris:

"Owing to the prominent position held by the late Governor Morris and the absence from town of so many members of the bar, it is deemed appropriate that the memorial services of the bar association be held on some convenient day in September, when all members of the bar can be present, and that therefore no special meeting of the bar be now called."

WALLINGFORD.

George Grieb's trotter dropped dead on the Center street track yesterday afternoon after having been speeded around the course a couple of times.

Rev. J. L. Scott will return to Boston with his son, J. Alvin Scott, to-day.

Mrs. R. H. Gallaher and son Harry of Cranford, N. J., are the guests of Mrs. O. L. Martin.

Cliff Smith will enter for the Meriden bicycle races.

Rev. W. H. Peck is at Malden, Mass. Mr. and Mrs. Martin O'Connell of Whitteley avenue have a welcome visitor at their house—a bright baby girl, which arrived yesterday morning.

"Old Rube Tanner" is the attraction at the opera house this evening.

Malby, Stevens & Curtis company's factory is now running full time, with plenty of orders.

J. W. Lane has greatly improved the appearance of his store on Cherry street, which now looks bright and businesslike.

The T. A. B.'s are arranging for a big fair for eight nights in November, beginning the 15th. Five thousand dollars will be given as prizes, with a capital prize of $1,000.

There is a bad hole in the plank on Community bridge that is only covered by a loose board and is a dangerous place for horses. A bad spot in the road just west of the bridge also needs to be repaired, or there is likely to be some one injured and then a suit against the borough for damages is in order, which the authorities can prevent by fixing the places at once.

Edison's electric balloon, which is sent up every evening down New York way, is plainly visible here at about seven o'clock, and last evening was watched by several. It resembles a star and can be seen for several minutes.

BRIDGEPORT'S RAILROAD WORK.

Getting Ready for a Speedy Settlement—Coming Conference Between Representatives of the City and Consolidated Road.

Bridgeport, Aug. 22.—This morning Mayor Clark received a letter from Vice President John M. Hall of the Consolidated road, announcing that President Clark had arrived home from Europe, and was now prepared to take up the local railroad problem. Mayor Clark immediately took steps looking to holding a joint meeting. Vice President Hall stated in his communication that the road would have their plans and specifications of the contemplated improvements ready for inspection by the committee at their next meeting.

Endorsed a Note.

Hartford, Aug. 22.—Charles J. Goodwin of this city and William K. Jewett of Glenville have instituted suit through their counsel, Attorneys Chamberlain & Hull, against Frank E. Williams of New Haven for $6,000 damages. The plaintiffs with the defendant endorsed a note for $5,000 for the Windsor Locks Steel company. The note went to protest, the concern assigning in insolvency and Williams has thus far failed to pay his proportionate share of the face of the note.

His Reception Was Cordial.

Dublin, Aug. 22.—The Earl of Cadogan, the new viceroy of Ireland, made his formal state entry into the city this afternoon. Upon his arrival at Kildare town he was met by the commissioners of that place, who presented him with an address. In reply to the address the new lord lieutenant said he would spare no efforts to promote the material interests of Ireland and expressed hope that the administration of his viceroyalty would conduce to the peace and happiness of the country. Upon his arrival in Dublin he was presented with an address of welcome by the Dublin chamber of commerce, but he was not similarly received by the corporation authorities. The streets were lined with troops and crowded with sightseers. Taken altogether, his lordship's reception was very cordial.

SOUTHLINGTON.

Aug. 22.—The Crocodile club, composed of prominent men from all over the state, will hold their annual outing at Compoose, September 4.

The estate of the late Ellen Garrity has been appraised by Selectman Plumb and John Collins and the inventory appraisal amounted to $1,850 real estate and $75 cash.

Wonn tribe of Red Men will have a general outing day at Compoose Labor day.

Miss Kate Brennan, who died in Hartford recently, was insured for $2,000, $1,000 being payable to Michael Brennan and $1,000 to Mrs. John Donahue, both of this town.

A match game of ten pins will be rolled at Compoose next Tuesday evening between Southington and Bristol teams. The home team will be composed as follows: Dr. Charles Kelly, James and Walter Atwater, M. Flynn, W. H. Barnes, W. L. Ames, P. Larcher, Ives Wooding and Frank Bates.

Miss Susan Ives has given up her position at the North Agency in New Haven.

Owing to another engagement Miss Seward, the teacher who was hired for the South Center school, room 5, will not accept the position. The vacancy is still unfilled.

Next Sunday evening the chapel service will be conducted by Rev. F. Countryman of North Branford.

Miss Bessie Coe of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., is visiting at the home of her brother, C. B. Sherwood.

Mrs. J. E. Bishop spent Tuesday in Hamden with Mrs. C. B. Foote and Miss E. L. Tuttle.

H. P. Smith has bought the land on the south side of the road from the center to the Cheney place, and with his usual public spirit is planning many improvements. Among others the extension of the street running easterly past the Episcopal church to the Sarah Pierrepont place. We wish him success in his undertaking.

CLINTONVILLE.

Aug. 22.—The chapel was filled last Sunday with the people who gathered to hear Mrs. Thomas Barnes of Pasadena give her impressions of southern California. Friends were present from Mt. Carmel, Northford, Monticore and North Haven. Mrs. Barnes' experiences in travel and in various public positions, notably that of principal of the colored training school at Thomasville, Ga., have given her a wide range of observation. This, combined with her rare descriptive powers, charming manners, fine presence and clear voice made her address very interesting and instructive.

Next Sunday evening the chapel service will be conducted by Rev. F. Countryman of North Branford.

Miss Bessie Coe of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., is visiting at the home of her brother, C. B. Sherwood.
